

VISIT US AT CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Located in historic Old Towne Orange, Chapman University is a vibrant and engaging private university. Take advantage of many accessible activities and resources that are available to the public so you can get to know the university and see for yourself what a special place it is.

Private Tour of Chapman University

Once we can safely reopen to the public, you and up to four additional guests are invited for a private guided tour of the Chapman campus from the comfort and convenience of a six-passenger electric touring vehicle. Call David Moore at (714) 516-4590 for a tour date and time that is convenient for you.

Hilbert Museum of California Art

The Hilbert Collection is a significant repository of images of the 20th and 21st century by California artists, celebrating the unique artistic and cultural development of the Golden State. The museum is offering free admission with temporary limited hours and strict Chapman University health and safety protocol. For more details, visit www.hilbertmuseum.org. The museum is located at 167 N. Atchison St. in Orange.

Musco Center for the Arts

Virtually explore our state-of-the-art venue where students hone their talents and you can experience spectacular performances from some of the world's finest practitioners, on a grand scale. For a schedule of online events and more, visit muscocenter.org.

Huell Howser and California's Gold Exhibit

The joy that the late TV legend Huell Howser shared with generations of Californians is infused within a permanent exhibit housed in Chapman University's Leatherby Libraries. Although the exhibit is currently closed, you can watch episodes of California's Gold and more at chapman.edu/huellhowser.

Center for American War Letters

The Center for American War Letters (CAWL) is a unique and extensive manuscript collection of war letters from every American conflict, beginning with handwritten missives composed during the Revolutionary War and continuing up to emails sent from Iraq and Afghanistan. For more information and online access of digital archives, visit chapman.edu/cawl.

Huell Howser's Chapman Legacy

Throughout his prolific 30-year television career, Huell Howser shed light on the unique culture of California, recognizing the extraordinary qualities in everyday people and situations in his signature program, California's Gold. His incredible legacy will continue to shape the stories of Chapman University students for generations to come through the California's Gold Endowed Scholarship, a gift he generously funded during his lifetime and enhanced with a gift through his living trust. To learn more about Huell's legacy visit chapman.edu/legacy-stories.

"The students appreciate those scholarships; every cent they can get helps them meet their goals and their dreams."

- Huell Howser
